Public comment: Tim Weathersby from GrantWorks stated in Texas, once a disastrous event happens, all the cost estimates for government assistance would need to be submitted within 30 days of the event. In that situation, if the city needed to hire a company to help with those submissions. It would typically take two months just to process and hire a company to do those government submissions for you. GrantWorks encourages every city to hire a company prior to a disastrous event. If a disaster hits, the city would not be able to afford to fix or repair, roads buildings, etc. Generally, the government disaster funds go to whoever submits the requests first and continue until the money runs out. The mayor stated we all have concerns about the creek on Spring Branch Road; it is a box culvert built presumably in the 1930's or 1940's. If a disaster were to take that out the city would not have the funds to fix or repair, it. Mr. Weathersby also stated the city would need to put together a disaster plan and the company the city hires would help with that. There are what is call mitigation monies which means you would be able to fix the culvert before a future disaster event.

There being no further public comment on agenda items, the meeting adjourned at 7:12 pm.
